HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, November 18, 1929

The House met at 12 o'clock noon, and was called to order by the Speaker.

The Chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer:

O Lord, teach us to pray; bless us with its true spirit. While our breath is in our nostrils it behooves us to remember that Thou art infinite in wisdom and holiness. Back of all is the tremendous truth that Thou art a sovereign God. A long time ago, out of the flaming mountains came the voice, "I am the Lord thy God!" O make us more susceptible to Thy presence, our conscience more tender and our spiritual discriminations clearer. Keep us in vital relationship with Thee as our Father, wherein there is perfect accord with Thy purposes. O do Thou impress us that the fear of God is wisdom and to keep His commandments is understanding. We pray in the name of Jesus. Amen.

The Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, November 14, 1929, was read and approved.

ADJOURNMENT

On motion of Mr. TILSON (at 12 o'clock and 4 minutes p. m.), the House adjourned until Thursday, November 21, 1929, at 12 o'clock noon.

Mr. JONES. The Senator from Indiana [Mr. ROBINSON] is also necessarily detained on business of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Seventy-nine Senators having answered to their names, a quorum is present.

THE FIRST DECADE OF NATIONAL PROHIBITION

Mr. SHEPPARD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to incorporate in the RECORD A Study of the Social Effect of National Prohibition During its First Decade, by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The article is as follows:

Prohibition is no longer an experiment in the United States of America. From whatever angle we view this question it has passed beyond the testing point and has demonstrated its value. This is attested equally in the fields of economics, of health, and of sociology. Assailed as no other public policy ever has been assailed, it has weathered storms which would have sufficed to overthrow a measure that was less strongly established or that did not have behind it a tremendous volume of public sentiment.

Prohibition has done more than meet the expectations of those who for long years prior to the submission of the eighteenth amendment labored in its behalf. It has exceeded those expectations.

Because we are so close to the question many of us do not fully realize the tremendous achievements which are to the credit of national prohibition. Then, too, that easy forgetfulness which is so characteristic of humanity makes it difficult for us to compare the occasional violation of the law to-day with the chronic violations of the preprohibition era. We know that the prohibition law is violated. We forget too readily that the license or regulatory laws were violated so continuously that the popular assumption was that such violations were normal. The occasional sight of a public drunkard to-day rallies a crowd. Before the adoption of the eighteenth amendment drunken nuisances infested the streets and public places. There is significance in the fact that the hip flask, with its limited quantity of liquor, has taken the place of the quart and the decanter. We are dealing in fractions now when once we dealt in whole numbers with three figures. If it be true of the beverage-alcohol problem that "needs must that offenses come," it is none the less a great achievement to have made those offenses so closely approach the minimum.

Over five years ago Charles Edward Russell wrote of prohibition:

"The only test of prohibition that counts is economic, and Europe is getting ready to own, in ways to cause some astonishment, that under such proving American prohibition stands up well."

Russell was then discussing the question "Is the world going dry?" Many of the economic phases of this question have an even heightened emphasis with the development of the prohibition observance in the years since Mr. Russell wrote.
